

Lake Tahoe Monster Found

Earlier today onlookers watched in amazement as a large crustacean of the Paleolithic era emerged from waters of lake Tahoe. Authorities report that the creature approached a tour boat and positioned itself up at passenger level of the boat. An eyewitness states that the creature opened its mouth and asked a passenger "I need about three fifty". The passenger was reported having said "I ain't giving you no three fifty", to which the monster turned around and submerged back into the water.

The Search is Begins

After the reported situation authorities have been searching the lake looking for the creature. A wide variety of techniques were used to try and lure out the monster, but to no success. A fisherman contacted authorities and reported seeing a large creature swim under his boat near the north side of the lake.
